Then, after dropping out, he flew back to Sydney's suburbs to help his family financially as his mother was a single mother.

There he worked for almost three manual jobs until he earned enough money to attend a seminar in Sydney. In this seminar, he got to meet an online business coach who helped him to gain foundational knowledge about running a shop. And then, armed with the knowledge, he managed to launch his e-commerce stores. His first sale involved the cosmetic products before he decided to add on some educational products to his shop.

And thanks to the wide variety of items available, his online businesses were making a steady $120,000 a month and he established as a successful entrepreneur.

What was matthew lepre idea behind starting Ecom Warrior Academy?

This Australian millionaire was actually living the lifestyle that many want and envy. All his four e-commerce businesses were earning profitably in six figures. He has managed to travel around the world, settling in Europe one day and then trotting to Africa the next. So although his life was doing pretty good, he still felt the need to do something else and bigger.

Mr. Matthew said that he wanted to do something for other digital warriors, the same age or younger to him, to escape the burden of the daily job. He said 'why work 9 hours a day in the office when you can do something easier at half the time and can also earn more at the same time?'

And so bearing this in mind, he decided to launch his another business- The Ecom Warrior Dropshipping Academy. This is a training program which features four different courses that focus mainly on e-commerce businesses. Just like his coach helped him, he also wanted to help students and people out there to become a successful entrepreneur and a millionaire like him.
